Skyscrapers don’t get any taller than Burj Khalifa, the tallest structure on the planet. Soaring 2,717 feet (828 meters) high with more than 160 stories, the building has a stepped design that narrows as it climbs syringe-like to the sky. Bringing a new meaning to the term skyscraper, the building is part of the massive Downtown Dubai complex of offices, hotels, shopping malls, entertainment precincts and apartment buildings.

Emirati people

Emirati people is a name given to the people of UAE these include those who hold United Arab Emirates nationality.
Ethnically Emiratis share their culture, descent and the Arabic variety of the United Arab Emirates (UAE).
Emiratis, including the ruling dynasties of the emirates of Abu Dhabi and Dubai, trace their origins to the Bani Yas clan of Arabia. However, people outside of the Bani Yas clan, such as Baluchis and immigrants from Iran's Bastak region and Bahrain, have been gradually integrated into Emirati society. A tiny number of South Asian, African and people from other races have intermarried with Emiratis.
Populations with Emirati ancestry, the result of emigration, also exist in other parts of the world, most notably in the Middle East, Europe and North America. Population estimates are seen to have a very small diaspora.

How to Make Arabic Coffee

"Arabic coffee" is a general term that refers to the way coffee is prepared in many Arabic countries throughout the Middle East. That said, there is a good deal of variation from place to place, including how the beans are roasted and what spices and flavorings are added. Arabic coffee is prepared on the stovetop in a special pot called a dallah, poured into a thermos, and served in a petite, handle-less cup called finjaan. You might be surprised at how it differs from Western-style coffee, but after a few sips you'll be making this for all your guests.

- 3 tablespoons ground Arabic coffee beans
- 3 cups water
- 1 tablespoon ground or crushed cardamom
- 56- whole cloves (optional)
- A pinch of saffron (optional)
- 1 teaspoon rosewater (optional)
